Mira is a second generation army officer's daughter. She is well travelled, polished and her skills of etiquette and personal grooming developed from a very early age.

Mira has a Master of Science degree in Clinical Research and a Diploma in Pharma management. She has worked as a clinical researcher at Johnson & Johnson in the past. Her job profile involved a significant amount of travel (national and international) to hospitals and sites.

While she was with Johnson & Johnson she had also been allocated the responsibility to mentor and conduct sessions for new employees in the following fields:

1. Business Dress code
2. Corporate etiquette
3. Body language,
4. Dining Etiquette
5. Business Communication & telephone etiquette.

While in this capacity, Mira realized that she not only has a flair but also a passion for training and therefore pursued in honing her talents even further. She has trained under the aegis of Ms. Suneeta Kanga, who is very well known in this field. Mira has accompanied Ms. Kanga on her various workshops and now conducts interactive sessions as a full time trainer for corporate India.
